Delay in the shipment of sugar is a cloud which has a silver lining, constantly increasing in area as sugar prices move upward.

Kauai has received a signed statement from one of the visiting Congressmen to the following effect: "There may be better people in Heaven than on Kauai but I am sure there are none on earth." If this does not put an end to all further controversy, what can?

Whether justified or not, telegrams give just a suggestion of complaint after the Territorial guests arrived in the vicinity of Hilo. Atkinson's may have promoted this idea, or possibly the long trip is working on the nerves of the travellers.

Honolulu should take a progres give stand in the trans-Pacific yacht race business. Having inaugurate the event, the people of the Island should by all means keep the good work going with a full-size represen tative boot. And it is well to remember that tourists follow the sucht-race course.

WIPING OUT THE BARONS.

Congressman Jones is reported to have told the people of Hilo that there must be an end of the baronial estates in Hawaii and more of the homesteaders with presumably small holdings.

This sounds all right and it is to be hoped that when Mr. Jones' remarks are more fully reported he will have disclosed how this is to be brought about.

Are the remaining public lands to be disposed of to homesteaders who may reside on the land long enough to sell out to a baronial purchaser, or sold to a homesteader who will employ Japanese labor, combine with others and incorporate, thus becoming a little baron of the same type which he is supposed to supplant?
